

Journey to Mastery Conference Goes Big in Toronto

ICF-Toronto staged the Journey to Mastery conference on March 6th, 2018, attracting 220 people for a full day of learning.

Robert Kegan, Harvard developmental psychologist turned executive coach and OD consultant, was the keynote speaker, presenting two 90-minute sessions. In the morning he led participants through an “Immunity to Change” process, highlighting the hidden commitments that keep us from making sustainable change. And in the afternoon he shared his research on “Deliberately Developmental Organizations.”

The rest of the day consisted of an MCC panel featuring some of Canada’s most experienced coaches, an interactive workshop led by Michael Bungay Stanier, as well as the ICF-Toronto PRISM awards, recognizing excellence in organizational coaching. (ICF-Toronto created the PRISM awards in 2000.)

Tracy Cocivera, of LHH Knightsbridge, said, “This year’s ICF Toronto Conference was a huge success. It was a day of valuable learning about sustaining human change, coach mastery, and highly impactful facilitation.”

The conference highlighted the size and commitment of the Toronto coaching community, as well as the strength of the local chapter that organized it.

Kanchan Prinsloo, co-organizer of the conference, said, “The ICF-Toronto Board is committed to bringing great learning experiences to the Toronto coaching community. This was only possible with the hard work and dedication of ICF-Toronto Board members.”

The lead sponsors for the event were Leadership Circle Profile and Hogan Assessments / D-TECK. Other

Michael Bungay Stanier taught participants how to be irresistible.

Robert Kegan took participants through his Immunity to Change process.

Participants shared their stories during the Journey to Mastery conference.

Garry Schleifer, publisher of choice Magazine, was one of the table sponsors at the Journey to Mastery conference.

er sponsors were LHH Knightsbridge, Coaching Ourselves, Optimizer 720, Business Coaching Advantage, Adler, iPEC, Royal Roads University, and choice, the magazine of professional coaching. ●

SAVE THESE DATES!

OCTOBER 17-19, 2018
3rd International Columbia Coaching Conference
New York, New York, USA
columbiacoachingconference.org

OCTOBER 19, 2018
Capitol Coaches Conference
Bethesda, Maryland, USA
icfmetrodc.org/CapitalCoaches-Conference

FOR MORE UPCOMING EVENTS, GO TO choice-online.com/events